A CLIENT SUCCESS STORY:

Dreaming of home

The American dream has been the driving force for citizens for decades. In 1931 James Truslow Adams defined it best in The Epic of America: it's the dream of a land in which life should be better for everyone, regardless of their societal status or circumstances presented at birth. Spanish Coalition for Housing (SCH) client, Sal Johnson, has led his life with that dream in mind, but the journey has not been without its challenges; however, threats of defeat have not dissuaded Mr. Johnson from moving forward.

His battle began early in life as he was born premature with oxygen toxicity (high amounts of oxygen to the brain). This caused damage to his retinas, leaving him permanently blind. He had to attend special schools that would cater to his needs; according to his parents, that was always the biggest challenge.
